

Show us your hidden talent and win £100

The Home Builder's Federation and the House Building Skills Partnership want to showcase skills on site across the UK.

We're looking for people who've mastered their craft or found a new way of doing a classic job. They might have a talent that makes people laugh or a trick that leaves you stunned.

This could be:

- Handy shortcuts or just showing off e.g. domino brick laying
- A hidden talent that makes you laugh on site
- Anything that grabs attention or impresses others

Whatever it is, if it's related to home building or can be done on site, (and if it doesn't break any health & safety rules), then we may want to feature it in a national advertising campaign to get young people into housebuilding.

The campaign will run on social media and potentially move into cinemas and anyone who features will receive £100 in Amazon vouchers.

To enter, please get employees to film themselves doing their trick or showing their talent and email the video to our advertising agency at sara.morgan@thirtythree.co.uk by Tuesday 27th March.

The videos are for selection purposes only and the chosen entries will be filmed professionally at a later stage.
